What's New In Neox Keylogger?

Neox Keylogger is a powerful and highly customizable tool for monitoring keystrokes, mouse clicks and other computer activity. The keylogger records the user's keystrokes and mouse clicks, and sends them to an HTML file that can be viewed directly on your Web browser. You can review these logs at any time, and export them to a text file for later analysis. Neox Keylogger provides you with several ways of tracking important activity, such as tracking the web pages a user visits, and the programs he or she runs, or any other keystroke-level information. You can also see the user's desktop activities in a window that slides open on the side of the Web browser window. If you are looking for a highly stealthy solution that can log all of your system activity and then export it to an html page that is viewable in the user's web browser you must try this Keylogger. With Neox Keylogger's powerful log report features, you can set up to 20 actions to be recorded when you want them to be recorded. You can monitor several keystrokes at once, assign actions to be performed when certain keystrokes are pressed, and even use built-in keyboard macros to automate complex actions. Keystroke level monitoring includes saving, listing, viewing, and exporting the recorded keystrokes. You can use Neox Keylogger to view the list of programs that a user has run during a session, export the session to an html page, and even create your own custom macros to automate a sequence of tasks. Many other features can be accessed and customized from the toolbar in the Keylogger window. The Neox Keylogger has been tested in the following ways, and has been proven to be highly stealthy and undetected: - Neox Keylogger does not show itself in the taskbar, nor does it open any new windows in the user's browser. - Neox Keylogger does not show up in the list of open windows in the Task Manager. - Neox Keylogger does not make any changes to the registry. - Neox Keylogger cannot be run as a service. - Neox Keylogger cannot be installed using a shortcut. Neox Keylogger includes five main files: - NeoxKeylogger.exe: The main Keylogger executable. - NeoxKeylogger.Config: The configuration file. - NeoxKeylogger.ini: The configuration file. - NeoxKeylogger.log: The log file. - NeoxKeylogger.htm: The log file.
